Thinking Out Loud

By H. M. L.

Now the question arises, will Governor Olson veto a relief appropriation bill of $45,000,000, just because it carries a provision for the return of SRA administration to the counties? We think the Governor is very much on the spot. Of course he can say that he specifically omitted return of relief administration in his call of a special session of the legislature, but on the other hand the legislature representing all the people of the state, can hardly be denied the right to hedge about its appropriation for relief with such conditions as it may see fit to prescribe. Certainly the governor's main reason for calling the special session was to provide money for relief.

Now if the Governor should veto the appropriation bill, even though it does carry a provision for the return of relief administration to the counties, what will all the people, now on relief, say to that? While both branches of the legislature may override his veto by a two-third vote, as must be done to carry a measure after the gubernatorial veto, it is doubtful if a majority that large can be found in the assembly, though the senate is undoubtedly able to, for the vote there stood 26 to 10.

The "economy bloc," so-called, is not so strong in the assembly as in the senate. The reason for this is not far to seek. The assembly chosen on a population basis represents, by and large, the cities. The senate chosen on a territorial basis represents the agricultural communities, which is not only more conservative than city communities, but, on the whole, has relatively fewer persons on relief.

On the merits of returning relief to county administrations, where it always had been, until the advent of the New Deal, we confess that we are prejudiced in its favor. We believe that only under county supervision will relief be adequately and economically administered. It is quite true that it may serve to corrupt county governments in such populous centers as Los Angeles and San Francisco. The opportunities for, and the chances of corruption are always enhanced in direct ratio to the amount of money handled by politicians, whether local, state or federal. But here in Nevada County we cannot but remember what a good job of relief our own supervisors did, until the job was taken away from them. In San Joaquin county, the supervisors gradually built up a general hospital that became noteworthy throughout the United States for its broad humnitarian service to all residents of the county, and a relief system that served as an exemplar for other counties in this and in other states.

Honestly and efficiently administered, relief turned back to the counties can be freed of its interminable red tape, chislers can be eliminated, those who are able bodied can more readily be provided with jobs, and a vigilant body of taxpayers, can readily see to it that wastes are abolished.

Four years ago Governor Olson himself led a fight in the state legislature to return relief to the counties. He attempts to prove that conditions now are entirely different. But to the disinterested taxpayers the chief difference is that now a Democratic governor has a large relief machine to build and maintain, whereas, when State Senator Olson made his fight, it was a Republican governor who wanted to use relief funds for political purposes.

We note that commentors on political affairs predict that the battle over relief, and whether or not it shall be returned to the counties, will lead to a stalemate. But we doubt whether the governor will permit such an issue of the controversy. He has ceased in his first year to be a bright angel with a flaming sword to very large proportion of the electorate. His playing fast and loose with the Ham and Eggers, his clownish performance in the prison board investigation, his adoption of the New Deal practice of "purging" his political opponents, and his radio bunkum and bluster, have not increased his political stature and prestige. The best thing the governor can do, it would seem, will be to take what the legislature hands him and then leave it to the electorate to judge whether they have done well or ill by the commonwealth. After all, sometime or other the governor must awake to the fact that he is not the whole show. We hope the governor is smart enough to let our legislators take the responsibility for their own acts.

At any rate we regard this as an opportunity for the governor to regain a measure of respect that he has been rapidly losing in California. He can acquiesce in what the majority of the legislature enacts, or he can go on battling by veto and radio, and take a worse beating than he did last year at the hands of the legislature. He can remain quite oblivious to the change in viewpoint that has taken place throughout the country, with respect to relief, taxation, public spending, and public waste, or he can confine himself to his strictly constitutional functions and play a definite part in California's reconstruction. We hope that he will choose this course rather than to continue in the simian role of a pallid, futile, California imitation of the Man in the White House.

ASSEMBLY TURNS BACK TO NORMAL FUNCTION AGAIN

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 5.—Restoration of proper balance between the executive and legislative branches of state government in California, as a result of overthrow of Gov. Olson's domination of the state assembly, is giving the people a voice during the special session of the legislature, Assemblyman C. D. Field, Glendale, said today.

"Gov. Olson, the state's chief executive, by giving orders to his personally selected speaker of the assembly during the 1939 regular session of the legislature, was usurping the functions of government, whereas the people elected him only to be the executive," Field said.

"When the new speaker of the assembly, Gordon Garland of Tulare county, jerked out the private telephone from the speaker's desk to the governor's office, over which the governor gave his orders in 1939 on bills before the assembly, he jerked the state government back to sanity. He dramatically indicated, at the outset of the special session, that the assembly takes orders only from the people of California."

Election of Garland, a Democrat, as speaker and Gardiner Johnson, Republican assemblyman of Berkeley, as speaker pro tem, restored representative leadership to the assembly, Field said. "Leadership now rests with 10 sound Democrats and 5 Republicans," he continued. "There no longer is a Huey Long in control of our legislative body."

Reappointment of assembly committees already has resulted in greater fairness and efficiency in handling the program of the special session, according to Field. "Whereas Republican members were ignored in appointing committee chairmen last year, there are now 35 Republican committee chairmen," he pointed out, "thus giving the people of the state the benefit of their long experience in the legislature and their familiarity with the difficult problems facing California at this time."

MISSING VICTIM OF AMNESIA IS FOUND

George Colvin, young Grass Valley man who had been missing about 24 hours from his home was found by Highway Patrolman Carl Kitts and returned to his home Sunday forenoon. He told the officers he had spent the night between Grass Valley and Roseville sleeping out in the open and started back toward Grass Valley early in the morning. when he was found by the officer.

Colvin had just been discharged from the hospital after receiving treatment for a fractured skull sustained in an accident at the Narrows dam recently. He has suffered from anmesia since. Family members reported his absence after he failed to return home during the night.

BIG SCOUT GROUP ENJOYS PAHATSI SNOW SPORTS

Thirty two Boy Scouts and officials left early Saturday morning for Camp Pahatsi arriving there at 5 o'clock and breakfast was enjoyed at 6 o'clock. After that the group went out to enjoy snow sports until dark even though snow fell all day long. Scout officials were, Leland Smith, Tahoe forest supervisor; Attorney T. B. Richardson; Mr. Howden of forest service, and Cecil Klee, principal of the Nevada City elementary school and scout master.

The boy scouts were given ski lessons and they surprised their instructors with the way they learned to handle themselves. The boys were commended as one of the most orderly groups to ever visit Pahatsi.

Principal Klee was complimented on the way he managed the trip and aroused the enthusiasm of the boys.

In coming out from Camp Pahatsi the trip was made over five feet of snow and it was still falling as they reached Soda Springs to catch the train for the homeward journey. As the group neared the railroad they came too near the snow plow which threw a heavy spray of snow all over them. A number of the scouts were bowled over, their packs broken open. Mr. Klee had his glasses broken before they could scramble away from it.

The lodge at Camp Pahatsi was warm and all were comfortable during their stay in camp.

RADIO REPORTS ON SNOW FAIL TO HALT SKIERS

Radio reports on snow conditions don't seem to have much effect on the influx of snow sports enthusiasts on the Donner recreation area according to figures kept by District Ranger John R. Hodgson at Cisco. Hodgson found by car counts and checking S. P. ticket sales that 6000 people came to the sports area for snow sports on the week end of January 20-21. During the ensuing week, rain on the snow pack and unsettled weather foretold comparative unfavorable skiing conditions. The following week end and a snow sports broadcast gave out this information. Hodgson's count found that the number of visitors the following week end in spite of this was within 150 of the previous one. The comparatively light snowfall and rains have tended to discourage skiing below Soda Springs, and although resorts all along the highway are reported to have been full, the concentration of snow sports activities in the area from Soda Springs to the summit, tended to make congested condtiions and over taxed ski lifts and other facilities. Injuries were comparatively numerous, but the majority were due to early morning skiing on frozen snow, according to Hodgson. One hour count of cars passing the Big Bend ranger station on the afternoon of January 21, showed 412 westbound, or practically seven a minute. Seventy five per cent of them carried their own equipment and about six per cent carried toboggans.

The CCC boys in the two local camps, Forest Hill and Grass Valley, are quite busy completing the ranger station at Downieville and working on telephone lines. This work was started last summer.

WM. F. RODDY FAMED FINANCE ADVISOR, PASSES

Death last night ended the brilliant career of William Franklin Roddy, 69, distinguished financial expert and one of the world's foremost authorities on customs procedure.

His death, culminating a lingering illness, is a blow, not only to Nevada City where he was always interested in civic affairs, but in capitols of countries all over the world—countries that today are indebted to him for his authoritative advice on financial problems.

He endeared himself to this community by his attractive personality and pleasing, kindly manner. His associations and activities here were marked with a sincerity of purpose that left him with the reputation of being one of the most popular men in Nevada City.

William Franklin Roddy, according to "Who's Who in America", was born in Larisa, Texas, on June 27, 1871, the son of William Christtofer and Fannie E. Roddy. He graduated as an accountant at Omen-Texas in 1889. Six years later he married Mabel Estelle Williams of Kaufman, Texas.

His career in international finance began in 1900 during the Philippine Insurrection when he entered the Philippine Custom Service on detail from the army. He was affiliated with that organization until 1918. After serving as collector of customs at various ports for short intervals, he entered the employ of the Nicaraguan government as collector of customs of the port of Corinto, which post he held until 1927.

In 1927 he was appointed adviser of customs to the Ecuadorian government and three months later was given the post of Director General of Customs. He relinquished that office in 1930 and served in an advisory capacity as technical adviser of customs for a year.

In commenting on the work of American authorities who are aiding foreign governments, the magazine World's Work in May 1929 said "William Franklin Roddy, the American expert on customs in Ecuador who got to be an expert by collecting customs in the Philippines and in Nicaragua, is said still to be in the employ of the Ecuadorian government."

At this time he became associated with the famous Edwin Walter Kemmerer, probably the outstanding figure in international economics who was called the "Money Doctor" because of his ability successfully to treat ailing currencies.

At the beginning of the last decade, the financial structure of the Republic of Peru was in a precarious position. The Kemmerer Commission, composed of economic experts, was formed to reorganize the finances of that country. Because of his long experience and unquestioned eminence in the field of customs, Roddy was honored with an integral position in this group. The success of this commission is attested to by a magazine article in the Saturday Evening Post, including a photograph taken in Lima, showing a group composed of Kemmerer, Roddy and several Peruvian statesmen.

He originally became interested in local affairs in 1914 by purchasing and developing agricultural lands in this vicinity and subsequently becoming a resident of Nevada City. In 1935 he and Mrs. Roddy built a beautiful new home on the Ridge Road to Grass Valley at Town Talk.

He was long active in the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce and was a member of various committees of the chamber.

He was a 32nd degree Mason, Scottish Rite; a member of the Empire Country Club of Nevada County; La Union of Guayaquil, Ecuador; and the Country Club of Barranquilla, Columbia.

Surviving him are his wife and their adopted daughter, Mrs. Forrest Tell of Indianapolis, Ind., who recently came from the east to be with her father. He also leaves the following sisters: Mrs. Beulah Brady, New York City; Mrs. C. R. Pelton, Yoakum, Texas; Mrs. J. R. Cawthorn, Arlington, Texas; Mrs. M. F. Mayfield, Mrs. John Pratt and Mrs. T. C. Sadler all of Wills Point, Texas; and one brother, S. V. Roddy of Troup, Texas.

His father, W. C. Roddy, passed away last October at the age of 92 in Wills Point, Texas.

His niece, Mrs. T. L. Tipton of Dallas and Mrs. Roddy's brother, W. H. Williams of Fort Worth, Texas, recently arrived.

Funeral services will be held in the Holmes chapel in this city at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning. Commitment services will follow at the East Lown Mausoleum in Sacramento at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The Rev. H. Thomas Pateman, rector of Trinity Episcopal church and the Masonic Order of this city will conduct the service here.

HALLOCK TO ADDRESS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

George W. Hallock, president, and W. W. Esterley, secretary of the California Hydrualic Mining Association will address members of the Nevada City Chamber of Commerce tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock, according to Secretary H. F. Sofge.

Other business at the meeting includes the selection of a nominating committee to draw up a slate for next term's officers. The election of officers will be held at a dinner meeting in March.

Plans will also be discussed for the 4th of July celebration which will be held in Nevada City this year. Officers of the chamber request a large attendance.

DE WITT NELSON ASSIGNED TO SAN BERNARDINO

Transfer of DeWitt Nelson, forest supervisor at Nevada City to the supervisorship of the San Bernardino national forest has been announced by Regional Forester S. B. Show of San Francisco, the change to be effective some time during the month of March. The supervisorship of the Tahoe forest is to be filled by transfer of Guerdon Ellis who has been in charge of the Trinity national forest at Weaverville for the past three years.

Nelson has been in charge of the Tahoe forest since June 1936, having served the previous year as liaison officer for the 9th Corp Area in connection with the Civilian Conservation Corps program.

In connection with his transfer, Nelson states: "It is with extreme regret that I leave the Tahoe. It has one of the finest organizations I have ever worked with and my associations for the past three years with the users and residents of the forest and in its vicinity, and the fine cooperation I have had from them, will ever be a bright spot in my memory book.

"Except for remaining on the Tahoe, however, San Bernardino would be my first choice. I had been supervisor of that forest for a comparatively short time when I was hurriedly transferred in 1935 to take the postiion of liaison officer at the Presidio.

"At that time, I expressed a wish to be returned to that forest if opportunity ever offered and I believe it is in deference to my wishes along with official necessity that is responsible for my transfer to that particular place. My interest in the Tahoe forest and desire to see its present standard of accomplishment retained prompted me to especially recommend Guerdon Ellis as my successor. I have been closely associated with him for a number of years and know him to be exceptionally capable, energetic, progressive and community minded. Knowing him as I do, I am confident that the forestry program of the Tahoe will carry on as usual and without the disruption and readjustment period that is often incident to change in administration. I want to take this opportunity to thank the fine people in this part of California who have cooperated with me so whole heartedly and to bespeak for Mr. Ellis their continued fine cooperation."

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Sweeney of San Jose are expected to arrive in Nevada City tomorrow on a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Sweeney. They have been on a short vacation visiting Death Valley and Yosemite Valley.

R. L. Bigelow, retired supervisor of the Tahoe national forest, stated today that swarms of black birds flocked to the trees about his home Sunday in their yearly springtime pilgrimage. The gleaming black birds were a noisy lot as they chirped and sang of springtime.

SKI COURSES GET BIG FALL OF NEW SNOW

Rainfall to date at Nevada City according to the weather gauge at the home of Mrs. Jennie Preston on Boulder street registers 24.90 inches. There was only 7.72 inches on December 31 and in January a total of 17.18 inches fell while the first five days of February have brought two inche.s

From the state division of highways it was learned that there are four feet of snow on the Yuba Pass. Fifteen inches of new snow fell at the Yuba Pass yesterday. There was three inches of new snow on the ground near Steep Hollow on the Tahoe-Ukiah highway yesterday morning but it had all melted this morning as the result of warm rain during the night.

Snow fell all day Saturday and Sunday on Donner Summit and there was fully a foot of new snow on the ground between Soda Springs and the Summit yesterday. The total at Donner Summit and Soda Springs is 76 inches of snow.

A count of automobiles Sunday afternoon gave a total of 591 from the Fox Farm to Donner Summit besides several special trains were run by the Southern Pacific to the summit.

From every side comes special praise for Captain Joe Blake and assistant officers for the very effective way they handled traffic.

The storm make the work difficult. The state division of highway officers kept cars from being blocked along the heavily traveled roads. They stood in the snow and rain all day and were soaking wet when they went off duty.

THIEF ENTERS WOMAN'S ROOM STEALS PURSE

Mrs. Lutz, waitress at the Rainbow Inn in Nevada City, complained yesterday to the city officers that she had had her room in the Barberi rooming house robbed at one o'clock Sunday morning. She stated the thief entered her room while she was lying on the bed and made off with her pudse. When he realized she was in the room, he ran out and down the back stairs. She described him as being tall, and thin. Mrs. Lutz claims $14 was stolen from her purse. Chief of Police Garfield Robson is investigating the robbery.

JOHN F. KEENAN CALLED TO REST

Greater Than Them All

Eight peace-time years of President Roosevelt and the New Deal have cost the Federal Treasury more than twice as much money as it has spent on all the wars in which the United States has participated put together. This astonishing fact was made apparent today by an analysis of the President's budget message which for the first time gave to Congress and the American people a complete picture of the cost of government under the New Deal.

Unless President Roosevelt obtains a third term, the budget which he sent to Congress yesterday is the last he will have to prepare before leaving office. In that budget the President disclosed the actual amounts paid out by the Treasury during the first six years of his administration, he submitted revised estimates of the contemplated expenditures for the current year and set for the itemized list of anticipated expenses during his final year in office.

The total bill which he presented to Congress for the eight years of his administration was for the astronomical sum of $65,629,000,000, of which more than $40,000,000,000 comes from the taxpayers and more than $25,500,000,000 has been borrowed.

With that bill, President Roosevelt has hung up a record of prodigality never equaled in any other eight-year period of American history.

How puny were the records of his predecessors in office by comparison may be gauged by the fact that at the end of 1876—one century after the signing of the Declaration of Independence—the eighteen Presidents who had held office up to that time had spent jointly and collectively a total of $9,000,000,000.

President Roosevelt is spending $9,200,000,000 of the Treasury's money every year, despite the fact that this sum once was sufficient to meet all the needs of the Federal Government for eighty-seven years, covering not only the costs incident to the rapid national expansion and constantly diminishing frontier, but the costs of the War of 1812, the Indian wars, the Mexican War and the Civil War included.

These first eighteen Presidents from Washington to Grant, inclusive, were pikers when it came to realizing the need for "deficit spending." Their successors did a little better, but it took the twenty-seven presidents of the United States 130 years to top the figure that President Roosevelt has managed to reach in eight years.

From 1789 to 1920 inclusive, according to the annual report of the Secretary of the Treasury, all the peace-time and all the war-time expenditures of the Federal Government put to gether totaled $66,344,000,000 — or just $715,000,000 more than the New Deal has shoveled out in eight years.

This sum included the total cost not only of the wars mentioned, but of the Spanish and the World War as well.

In his message to Congress the President said:

"The budget of the United States Government is a statement that reflects in money terms what the Government does for the people and what the people contribute to the Government.

"In these figures over a course of years are mirrored the changing attitudes of the people toward the growing needs which they expect their Government to meet. The relatively low and constant level of expenditures throughout the nineteen-twenties accurately reflected the relatively minor role played by the Government in those years.

"The substantial increase in the past decade is a reflection of the degree to which the country, in response to changing economic and international conditions and changing attitudes, has turned to the Government to meet social needs recognized by our citizenship. Nowhere are our democratic processes so faithfully depicted."

If the great administrations of American history are to be measured by the principle propounded by President Roosevelt, then his administration will go down in history not only as hundreds of times more effective and more democratic than those of Washington, Lincoln, Jefferson, Jackson and Wilson, but greater than the administrations of them all and all the intervening Presidents together. — Phelps Adams, in special disptach from Washington, D. C. to the New York Sun.

COUNCIL HONORS DR. CHAPMAN FOR SCOUT RECORD

Dr. C. W. Chapman, pioneer resident of Nevada City and early worker in scouting was presented with a twenty five year veteran's award at the sixteenth annual dinner of the council held last week in Auburn.

The award is the first of its kind to be presented in the council and one that is held by only a few men in the United States. Dr. Chapman has been identified with the scouting movement since its beginning in Nevada City thirty years ago. His sons have enjoyed its benefits and graduated from its ranks with honors. Dr. Chapman has been on the commtitee of the original Troop 1, later troop 6 sponsored by the Native Sons of the Golden West and also the district committee since the formation of the council in 1923. A total of twenty five years of registered service have been amassed by the doctor and that award was presented by Judge G. L. Jones National Council Representative on behalf of the Chief Scout Executive who wrote a personal letter of commendation and congratulation to Dr. Chapman on this occasion.

The annual dinner of the council which was attended by over one hundred and forty people in Auburn last week was an outstanding scouting affair. Oscar A. Kirkham, of Salt Lake City and the Mormon Church Young Men's Mutual Improvement Association was the guest speaker. His inspirational address was entitled "The American Way." Kirkham was introduced by Judge John F. Pullen of Sacramento who is also chairman of Region 12 committee.

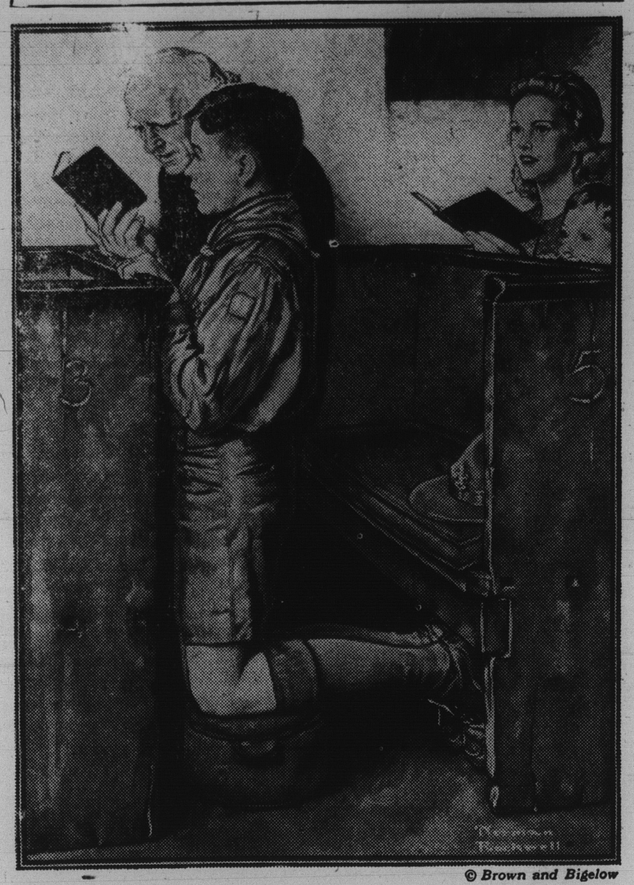
At the meeting the annual election of officers and members of the executive board took place. Horace Curnow was elected as chairman of Nevada City district and vice president of the council, William James and Walter Carlson were named as Nevada City district representatives and DeWitt Nelson was elected as a member at large. John Fortier as vice chairman of the Nevada City district was named to the executive group as a representative with Chairman Horace Curnow.

Lowell L. Sparks, district attorney of Placer county was again elected as president of the council. This is Sparks' third term as president of the council.

Another highlight in the program was the presentation of a Fifteen Year Veteran award to Judge Jones by President Sparks after the judge had presented the other scouters with their awards. Jones was also elected as national council representative for 1940

A delegation of Nevada City residents made the trip for the district representation and included in addition to Jones and Chapman, Cecil Klee, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gwin, Miss Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Foreman, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Martz,

A Scout Is Reverent



© Brown and Bigelow

MAINTAINING that no boy can become the best kind of citizen without recognizing his obligation to God, the Boy Scouts of America, in this new Norman Rockwell painting, symbolizes the spirit and meaning of its Twelfth Scout Law: "A Scout is reverent. He is reverent toward God. He is faithful in his religious duties and respects the convictions of others in matters of custom and religion."

A Searchlight staff meeting was called Friday noon by Betty Norton, editor, under the joint supervision of Miss Ruiter and Mr. Horn. The staff was reorganized and given specific duties. Anyone who does not do his part in the publication will be automatically dropped. The paper will be mimeographed by the typing II class. The next issue will come out this Friday.

APPRENTICE TRAINING

The plan of apprenticeship training may be carried out for the second year. Last year boys who had their graduation requirements spent the afternoon of the last semester working at different business places, down town. The boys gain practical experience for their year after high school.

Mr. Horn has tentative plans to send his shorthand II class down town to work part of the day in various business offices to gain practical experience as stenographers. He hopes that the plan will work out, but as yet, nothing definite has been decided.
